

How much of the globe was affected by heat stress?

Daily percentage of the global land area where the maximum feels-like temperature exceeded 32°C, experiencing 'strong' to 'extreme heat stress'

Feels-like temperature based on the Universal Thermal Climate Index (UTCI), which accounts for temperature, humidity, wind speed, radiation, and the human body's response to the combination of these. Data excludes Antarctica.

Data: ERA5-HEAT UTCI • Credit: C3S/ECMWF